The Misselwood Concours d’Elegance event proceeds support the Inspire Scholarship, which enables students who are the first in their families to attend college to benefit from Endicott’s innovative experiential, professional, and liberal arts education. During the 2025–26 academic year, Inspire Scholarships totaling over $858,000 were awarded to 56 students.

Scholarships play a critical role in welcoming students to Endicott from every community, culture, and walk of life. Over 97% of our traditional undergraduates receive financial aid in the form of scholarships and grants. Thanks to your support, more students can benefit from Inspire Scholarships in years to come.

Last year’s Inspire Scholar speaker, Daniel Gomez ’28, is a junior who is studying political science. He was born and raised in Beverly, Mass., with his father, who is from Guatemala, mother, and siblings. Daniel is the first in his family to attend college. So far during his time at Endicott, Daniel has completed an internship in sustainability with Green Beverly and worked with Historic Beverly, researching Black Privateers who served in the American Revolution. Daniel’s hope for the future is to “make the world a bit more fair for future generations.”
